It's been a funny week. I think we are all waiting for the information of the National Road Map and how this impacts not only our homes and family but school life too.

As a school we will know this information when you do—by watching the Prime Ministers address on Sunday. But rest assured from this information we will be responding.

I am not sure about you and your families, but I think this week has been the hardest week so far in Lockdown in terms of motivation— and especially from a home learning perspective. Avoiding the things we like doing the least and just generally being fed up with the routine. Personally I can't wait to get back to school with everyone in it, but I know that this can only happen when it is safe to do so.

Wishing you all a good bank holiday. Hang on in there and we will see you all very soon.

Mrs Winterburn and all the Staff and Governors at SSQ.

Woof! A message from Beau

Hello fellow Team Stanton

I love my walks in the field but I have been missing my walks on the beach.

I thought I would share a photo from a little while ago. On this walk especially I found a fish washed up on the beach. It looked and smelt really interesting. I can't imagine why Mrs Winterburn told me to leave it alone. Do you know why?

Have a lovely Bank Holiday weekend and see you all soon

Great British Bunting

On Friday 8 May 2020 Britain will be commemorating the 75th anniversary of VE Day when the guns fell silent at the end of war in Europe.

Due to the coronavirus restrictions most VE Day 75 events and street parties have had to be cancelled or postponed but we still want you to be able to mark the occasion, share your pride in our country and honour the men and women of WW2.

You can make your own special VE Day 75 'Great British Bunting' to display in your window at home.

Here are all the instructions you need to get started using any paper, cereal boxes, string, ribbon, sweet wrappers, felt pens, poster paint you have or whatever you can find.

You can decorate your bunting with pictures of whatever inspires you, whether it's those who fought on the frontline or worked hard on the Homefront, or whether it's a celebration of enduring peace or your own personal hero.

Visit the website below for bunting template, instructions and step by step guide.

Hang your bunting with pride over the weekend of Friday 8 May - Sunday 10 May and make sure you share your pictures with us at rhineclass@stanton-st-quintin.wilts.sch.uk so we can share on our school blog.

Looking for new home learning experiences?

If you're looking for new ideas and inspiration to support students and families studying at home, then you've come to the right place.

We've bundled together some of our most popular classroom resources to help you bring Shakespeare into the home in fun and engaging ways.

Devised by teachers, for teachers, our cross-curricular resources are designed to enrich learning and provide you with practical and creative ways to inspire your students.

The hundreds of free resources have been developed by the Shakespeare Birthplace Trust, coordinators of Shakespeare Week, the award-winning national celebration giving primary school children a great first encounter with Shakespeare.

Raspberry Pi

Click on the link for further information

The Raspberry Pi Foundation have launched a new, free Digital Making at Home initiative to support parents and young people with coding at home. You don't need any coding experience to join in, and all of their resources and activities are free forever.

Every Monday, they release new themed code-along videos about projects designed for all levels of ability. They also provide support tutorials for parents who are interested in learning more about coding tools like Scratch and Python, and over 200 projects with step-by-step instructions that are accessible online at any time — all for free.

Sign up now to start receiving free activities suitable to your child's age and ability straight to your inbox.
