School Offer for Special Educational Needs and Disabilities

September 21

What is The School Offer?

- As part of the Children and Families Bill 2014, all schools are required to make available their local SEND offer to families. This details how they can support children and young people with a special educational need and/or disability (SEND).
- A child or young person has SEN if they have a learning difficulty or disability which calls for special educational provision to be made for him or her.

Definition of SEND

The term 'special educational needs' has a legal definition, referring to children who have learning difficulties or disabilities that make it harder for them to learn than most children of the same age. Many children will have special needs of some kind at some time during their education.

Help will usually be provided in their ordinary school, sometimes with the help of specialists. If your child has special educational needs, they may need extra help in a range of areas, for example:

- schoolwork
- reading, writing, number work or understanding information
- expressing themselves or understanding what others are saying
- making friends or relating to adults
- behaving properly in school
- organising themselves
- some kind of sensory or physical needs which may affect them in school

Overview of the school

 - Each child on our SEN register will receive a ‘Stanton Plan’. These are reviewed with parents 3 x per year and feature three priority targets.
 - Each child on our SEN register will create a ‘One Page Profile’ with their teacher. This is a child-friendly document which the child can use to communicate their needs.
 - Some children may have additional needs which may require short term interventions or some additional support.
 - Some children who have a special educational need may require a ‘Personalised Education Plan’ to support their learning and enable them to access the curriculum.
 - Children are assessed under an ‘Assess, Plan, Do, Review’ model. For more information on this, please refer to appendix 1.
- Who can I talk to, and how, if I am not happy with what or how my child is learning?
 - The first point of contact for parents or carers is always your child’s class teacher.
 - Parents and carers are encouraged to speak informally to teachers after the school day, or request a formal appointment.

GRADUATED APPROACH COMPRISES OF:

Following the assessment and planning, and dependent upon the need, there are a variety of interventions that could be employed to support the child. Following an identified need, pupils may fit the criteria for one or a combination of interventions. "Special educational needs and provision" can be considered as falling under four broad areas.

COGNITION AND LEARNING

SENSORY AND/OR PHYSICAL NEEDS

SOCIAL, MENTAL AND EMOTIONAL HEALTH

COMMUNICATION AND INTERACTION

Special Educational Needs

What are Special Educational Needs and Disabilities?

Special Educational Needs and Disabilities, or SEND, is a term that is used to describe pupils who have needs over and above those that can be met by good quality classroom teaching. These needs may be within:

- Communication and interaction
- Cognition and learning
- Social, mental and emotional health
- Sensory and/or physical

They may be for a short period or throughout a child's educational life. They may be identified before a child has even entered school or they may come to be recognised at a specific point in their education.

Stanton St Quintin Primary School is proud of the work it does with all its pupils and we have significant strengths working with children with special needs. We build self-esteem with positive learning experiences and successfully involve children with whole school life. We recognise SEN with the intention of addressing unmet needs; and enabling children to have an ability to engage, and develop skills and knowledge to achieve, succeed and even excel beyond their potential across all areas of the curriculum.

We follow the guidelines set out in the 2014 Code of Practice for SEN. Teaching staff continually strive to fully understand their pupils and comprehensively meet their needs.

Continuum of Support

|-----------------------------------|--|
| School Concern | If the class teacher or parent identifies a concern, the SENCo will liaise with the class teacher over a Wiltshire Graduated Response to SEND Support (WGRSS) assessment. This process is designed to high-light any area of need. On many occasions, concerns are due to temporary changes and can be resolved without reaching the next stage. |
| SEN Support (Stanton Plan) | Children who are identified with non-temporary learning needs will become part of a single category known as SEN Support. Their progress will be monitored by the class teacher and SENDCo and they will compile a one page profile in conjunction with their teacher. They will also receive a 'Stanton Plan', which parents and teachers |

|--|--|
| | meet to discuss 3 x per year. The SENDCo may also attend these meetings if necessary. |
| Wiltshire 'My Support Plan' | This is a detailed document stating all of the child's needs and intended outcomes. It is written by the parent and SENDCo before being registered with Wiltshire County Council. This document can be used to build evidence towards future statutory assessment. |
| Wiltshire 'My Plan' - Education and Health Care Plan (Statutory Assessment) | The EHCP replaces the 'Statement of Special Educational Needs'. Personnel from the local authority will liaise with the SENDCo and class teacher over the child's provision. All professionals that support the child will meet with their family for an annual 'Person Centred Review'. Children with EHCPs receive funding to ensure that the school can support them effectively. |

Here is some key information for parents regarding the SEND Code of Practice, 2014:

What changes have been made to the SEN system?

The Government is transforming the system for children and young people with special educational needs (SEN), including those who have disabilities, so that services consistently support the best outcomes for them.

The Children & Families Bill will extend the SEN system from 0 to 25, giving children, young people and their parents' greater control and choice in decisions and ensuring needs are properly met. There are also changes to the way SEN is funded, as part of school reform.

What have the SEN changes meant for Teachers?

Teachers are more accountable for the progress of pupils with SEN, even those who receive extra support from specialist staff. This is referred to as Quality First Teaching. If a pupil is not making enough progress, Teachers, SENDCo's and parents should work together to solve any problems, and to plan targeted support and teaching strategies.

What has replaced SEN statements?

Under the new Code of Practice, Statements of SEN will no longer be produced but will be replaced by education, health & care plans (EHCPs).

EHCPs have replaced statements and learning difficulty assessments (LDAs) and will stay in place up to the age of 25, wherever a young person stays in education and still has needs that require an EHCP, i.e. an EHCP will continue only for young people who choose to stay in education or training.

For most young people this will be to go to further education (college), or to get an apprenticeship.

What will replace School Action and School Action Plus?

Children who were previously within these categories will now be under one single category known as 'SEN Support'. In conjunction with their teacher, they will produce a one page profile known as a Wiltshire My Support Plan'.
